today's software millionaires made money using software copyrights

and they're trying to prevent you from making your millions by using software patents

With copyrights, code can be owned
With patents, even ideas can be owned.

Imagine you want to start an online store selling t-shirts. You would be infringing at least 20 patents, from the one on online shopping carts, to the one on credit card transactions. Even if the code is your own!

This is a reality in the U.S., and might become the case in India. Unless you act. Now.
