

Our vision is to empower all people to freely connect, create and share in a digital world that is participatory, transparent, and sustainable.

The SFD Bangalore Inter-Collegiate Competition

compete • spread the word • win prizes

What you can do:

- Conduct events on the Free-and-Open-Source philosophy and on Creative Commons
- Set up a simple public booth and hand out CDs
- Show Open Source operating systems (Ubuntu) and applications (Firefox, OpenOffice)
- Hold a talk on Free-and-Open-Source-Software and Creative Commons

Promote your activities:

- Word of mouth - this is always be the best way of getting participants to join
- Posters (email convene@mahiti.org, and we'll send some)
- Social Media: Facebook, Orkut, Twitter, etc.

Don't forget:

- Logistics (venue, microphones, projectors, screens, whiteboards, internet connection)
- Prizes
- Materials, CDs, banners (email convene@mahiti.org, and we'll send some)
- Pictures and video
 - Use the SFDblr2010 tag on twitter and other services that allow tagging
 - Videos of 2 minutes or less on youtube (the more videos the better!)
 - Pictures (20+), make sure we can tell that the event was at your college
- Send us an email with your list of participants to convene@mahiti.org
 - Subject: SFDblr2010: <your college name/group name>
 - Participants full name, batch/class, email and mobile numbers
- Maximum 2 group per college, it's a good opportunity to work together to make a successful event, embracing the philosophy behind Free-and-Open-Source-Software

Prizes worth Rs. 10,000/- and more!

Submissions due Friday September 17th 5:30pm

convene@mahiti.org for more information

Sara: 96 200 59 813 Roshan: 9886 345 819

