FB voyeurism and traumatised teens

Psychiatrist Amit Sen, who has his own practice of Childcare First, says cyberbullying can be much more harmful than traditional bullying. While those who are good way of venting their anger, it is often peaceful and plain wrong. Cyberbullies, who are intellectual giants, are much more likely to commit suicide because of the pressure of social media. They are dealing with negative emotions and are often more likely to develop depression. It is important to talk to them and understand their feelings. The internet also provides them with an outlet for expressing their feelings, and a way to reach out to others. It is important to support and encourage them when they are feeling sad and angry. It is also important to help them understand the consequences of their actions. It is important to talk to them and help them understand the consequences of their actions.
